10 v.

11 WASHINGTON STATE
12 UNIVERSITY, DON HOLBROOK,
13 BRIAN ALLAN DIXON, and RANDI
14 N. CROYLE,

Defendants.

NO: 2:18-CV-0119-TOR

ORDER DENYING PLAINTIFF'S
MOTIONS FOR A MANDATORY
INJUNCTION AND TO EXPEDITE

15 BEFORE THE COURT are Plaintiff Darryl W. Riser's Motion for a 16 Mandatory Injunction to Preserve the Status Quo Ante (ECF No. 78) and 17 corresponding Motion to Expedite (ECF No. 79). The motions were submitted for 18 consideration without a request for oral argument. The Court has reviewed the 19 record and files herein, and is fully informed. For the reasons discussed below,
20 Plaintiff's Motion for a Mandatory Injunction to Preserve the Status Quo Ante

ORDER DENYING PLAINTIFF'S MOTIONS FOR A MANDATORY
INJUNCTION AND TO EXPEDITE ~ 1

1 (ECF No. 78) is denied. Plaintiff's Motion to Expedite (ECF No. 79) is denied as 2 moot.

3 Plaintiff requests the Court enter an expedited order for a mandatory
4 injunction to preserve the status quo ante ordering Defendant to "undo" Plaintiff's
5 termination and not engage in adverse actions against Plaintiff. ECF No. 78 at 1.

6 "A plaintiff seeking a preliminary injunction must establish that he is likely 7 to succeed on the merits, that he is likely to suffer irreparable harm in the absence
8 of preliminary relief, that the balance of equities tips in his favor, and that an 9 injunction is in the public interest." Winter v. Nat. Res. Def. Council, Inc., 555
10 U.S. 7, 20 (2008). "A prohibitory injunction preserves the status quo. A 11 mandatory injunction goes well beyond simply maintaining the status quo
12 pendente lite and is particularly disfavored." Stanley v. Univ. of S. California, 13
13 F.3d 1313, 1320 (9th Cir. 1994) (citations, internal quotations and brackets
14 omitted). A "district court should deny such relief 'unless the facts and law clearly 15 favor the moving party.'" Id. (quoting Anderson v. United States, 612 F.2d 1112, 16 1114 (9th Cir. 1979)).

17 Plaintiff asserts there is a substantial likelihood of success on the merits
18 because Plaintiff was "approved for unemployment compensation" based upon a 19 finding that Plaintiff was not "fired for misconduct", as defined under the

1 regulations governing unemployment. ECF Nos. 78 at 6-7, 84 at 3. Plaintiff also 2 argues:

3 Plaintiff engaged in “protected activities”: in October and November 2017,
4 reported Ethics Violations and was granted Whistleblower Protection [RCW
5 42.40] and on November 8, 2017, Plaintiff filed an Employment
6 Discrimination Complaint at the WSHRC. December 2017 and January 7 2018, Defendant WSU conspired a “pretextual constructive discharge” to retaliate against Plaintiff for engaging in “protected activities”. Defendant WSU claimed: “insubordination”, “quality of work”, and “failure to follow directives”. Prior to December 2017, there were no complaints about Plaintiff’s job performance, professionalism, or quality of work.

8 ECF No. 78 at 5-6 (emphasis in original). Plaintiff does not put forward any 9 additional argument as to this point. See ECF No. 78.

10 This is insufficient to meet the burden of demonstrating likelihood of 11 success. First, the finding that Plaintiff was not “fired for misconduct” does not 12 imply Defendant improperly terminated Plaintiff. The term “fired for misconduct”
13 is defined in Revised Code of Washington (RCW) § 50.04.294 and is limited in 14 application to the unemployment context. Even if Plaintiff was not “fired for 15 misconduct” in the ordinary sense of the term, Defendant could have fired Plaintiff
16 (as an at-will employee) without a showing of misconduct. To be actionable,
17 Plaintiff must demonstrate Defendant terminated Plaintiff for an inappropriate
18 reason, and Plaintiff has not met this burden in his Motion (ECF No. 78).

19 Second, Plaintiff’s bare conclusion that Defendants retaliated against 20 Plaintiff is not enough to demonstrate a likelihood of success. See Menefield v.

1 Stradley, 996 F.2d 1226 (9th Cir. 1993) (“Bare allegations of retaliation will not
2 suffice, by themselves, to sustain a claim of unlawful retaliation.”). Although
3 Plaintiff argues Defendants did not have any complaints about Plaintiff’s job
4 performance, professionalism, or quality of work before December 2017, ECF No.
5 78 at 2, the documentation submitted by Plaintiff supports the legitimacy of at least 6 some of the proffered reasons for Plaintiff’s termination and these reasons, if valid,
7 explain away the timing (for example, he was put on leave and then let go after he 8 demanded his superiors and the president of WSU resign). Besides the timing,
9 Plaintiff has not presented any evidence Defendant WSU or its agents retaliated
10 against Plaintiff. Plaintiff has failed to present a clear showing he is entitled to 11 relief. Stanley, 13 F.3d at 1320. The motion is thus denied.

12 ACCORDINGLY, IT IS HEREBY ORDERED:

13 1. Plaintiff’s Motion for a Mandatory Injunction to Preserve the Status
14 Quo Ante (ECF No. 78) is DENIED.

15 2. Plaintiff’s Motion to Expedite (ECF No. 79) is DENIED AS MOOT.

16 The District Court Executive is directed to enter this Order and furnish 17 copies to the parties.

18 DATED October 15, 2018.
